

WISDOM IS AN EYE FOR TRUTH.

The mind of human substance must forever probe the Mind of the Cosmos essentially enjoining it. But no matter how deeply conscious substance plumbs the self of its Cosmic Consciousness, its Original Agency is beyond apprehending. Our own person is the Mystery! The Personal Agency of Soul/Substance is the Investigator and the Investigated! Notwithstanding the distance between Ultimate Knowledge and self-consciousness, informed self-understanding is purposeful to self-edification and to a rightly directed consciousness. The continuity of transformation and of personal authenticity requires that the Grail Quest be pursued relentlessly.

Each person is an original mystery re-membered in the transformational links of cosmic soul/substance and transmitted across/in spacetime. Because the personal experience of human soul/substance is subjective and personal, and incomplete, the understanding of Spiritual Agency (antiquity's "gods") comes in subjective, personal and incomplete terms. Greco-Roman consciousness, for example, exemplified spiritual agency also in the multiple personalities of the Nine Muses. These agencies of consciousness ante-date Christianity's Angels. Christianity still defers to its Nine Choirs of Angels who mediate in Earth-persons Heaven-consciousness.

Nevertheless, incompleteness, ignorance and misdirection continue to misinform. Ignorance and misdirection in the matter of human sexuality, for example, still alienate men and women in their "religious" identities. Today's better informed consciousness of male/female mutuality mostly doesn't accept either the patriarchal animus exercised from ancient times against woman's "priestly" authenticity, or the belief in extra-human "messengers" outside the Cosmic Unity of soul/substance. While Angel-Musing attempts to explain neural complexity, cosmic inherency/coherency remains the soul/substance of human personality joining spirituality and materiality. What is sobering to realize is, that broadly speaking, children are the proclamation of their parents, for, "for better or for worse", in the formative molds of nature/nurture children become their parents.

CONSCIOUS COSMIC
CONTINUITY.

In trinitarian family God assumes flesh. The revelation of divinity occurs in the finite horizons of essential continuity—in and through the Original Cosmic Word. Divine revelation occurs in the proceedings of communication/consciousness/conscience, which process is faith/hope/love's expression personally present in soul/substance. The family setting is "wavefield" ground, the timely substance of personal destiny fulfilled in and fulfilling divinity—the conscious "relativity" of cosmic energy/mass/space/time—faith-full and naturally hope-full. Uniquely expressed in individuality is the coherent resonance of the infinitely branching Poetree, the creative communion of Garden-life revealed in, through and through-out time/space. The Middle-tree is genetic vitality. The personal soul (consciousness) experiences God-Presence (Love) in Garden imminence/immanence—the transubstantial mystery of reality.

FOREWORD

A daunting task for Christianity is to update its "metaphysics" on the established bases of cumulative science; Christian metaphysics still anchors in the assumptions of the scholasticism formalized by Thomas Aquinas. Modern knowledge of the origins and nature of human being/becoming is now a world apart from the assumptions of "perennial" scholasticism—and except Nature factually informs human consciousness on the knowledge-bases of cumulatively acquired understandings, presentday consciousness will continue to cling to the barren grounds of habituated misinformation.

But we must avoid judgmentalism. Before dealing harshly with our forebears we should self-examine what we're making of our new awareness of non-centrist, cosmic expansion, for example. Cosmic expansion opens continuously creation's space/time potential. The virtual infinity of creative fecundity happens in our personal space/time. Space/time expansion is a blend of cool-blue and fiery red, electro-statically applauding the Big Bang. Creation's "cosmic egg" is still hatching.

A deep-rooted problem is Thomas Aquinas' excessive lionizing of Aristotle in the formalizing of his philosophical/theological corpus. (Aristotle's thought was frame-worked to serve institutional Church.) Aristotle was an intellectual giant whose work is still impressive. He compiled an encyclopaedia of information that revealed his take on the wisdom of his time. His "natural science" as a body is called "Physica", and his speculative thought on "being"—as being—is called "Metaphysica". In his mix of inaccurate information, perhaps none is more consequential to Christian Theology than his assumptions about human sexuality, which were adopted into the religious culture of a god-justified dominance by males over females; and it still feeds male narcissism, patriarchy. "Earth-centrism" gives context to Aquinas' absolutist reasonings on the nature of God. To this day the scrupulous formalism absolutized in scholastic philosophy/theology enslaves Catholicism—which contemporary sense sees as incompatible and unbecoming to real-life.

Christian Theology, following in the Judaic tradition, holds that the "objectification" of God in images taken from creation falsely casts God, and is an action that too easily serves the convenience of idolatry. Thus, the casting of God in forms of human likenesses, whether male or female, misrepresents; for example, the "male" trinity is a misinformed objectification of the Godhead, as is the culture of male super-arrogation premised on it.

The modern consciousness of "human" being—as being— is based on quantum relationships that begin with the pointdensity expansion (Big Bang) and derive from the cosmic incidences of essential continuities—which are the complexity of all the presentday subjectivities/objectivities making up the Universe. The cosmic whole of subjectivities and objectivities is, at any point in time, the times/pace continuum of single-source energies amassed in the tensioned symmetries of molecules, atoms and subatomic particles—in process of transformational exchanging/sharing of electrical potentials (positive/negative valencies). The "electrons" (negative potentials) are disposed in energetic fields around nuclei (positive potentials) that motivate the interactivity of electron exchange/sharing. The molecular exchange/sharing of electrons gives substance/symmetry to energetic diversifications which construe mass and potential in particle/wave-field interactivity. Transformational creation, at any point in space/time, is orchestrated by wavefield amplification and diversification.

Human life, like all Earthlife, is a "harmonized coherency" powered by the energetic interactivities of wavefield overlap. The lap of Mother Nature nurtures all her interdependencies, embraces all her children; but more, Nature's convergence of harmonies is a bonding more enduring than peer conflicts. As peers in equal standing before Nature, embraced by the gravitations of cosmic harmony, we are called to find our bliss in the conduct of Nature's symphonic nurture and there to find the full realization of personal potential. When we come to the fullness of personal potential, the orchestration of all network life is graced—a grace that is transcendent in character.

Today's cumulative wisdom builds on the cosmology of Copernicus and Galileo, the physics of Heisenberg and Einstein, and the unified mind/body metaphysics advanced by Giordano Bruno and modern neuroscience. What is common to the science-bases of modernly informed physics/metaphysics/psychology is that being is not a state but is a process of becoming. All categories of thought are processes. The transformational process essentially characterizes—on a continuing basis—substance/soul. Thus, the God of St. John of Damascus (the Sea of infinite Substance) is also transformationally perceived, by reason of hypostatic connection to creation.

In the personal process of "becoming" human, individual life reveals aspects of the divine. The presumption of "Being" as static, as a changeless absolute, is without evidence in realworld experience; hence, absolutizing it is an unsubstantiated, "fideist" presumption; the word-fixed god of absolutist culture is a gratuitous imposition on divinity, on reason-based religion.

In METAGENESIS, the "science" of an open, quantum meta-physics is proposed as an understanding more satisfactory than a gratuitously-based dogma of cosmological centrism; also proposed is that the consciousness of "being in process—becoming" is more authenticating than the speculated, permanent "states" of being. The inauthentic dogmatism of authoritarianism, rigidified in the absolutist presumption, is a fixation that misconstrues divinity and defrauds the human person and societal institutions of their inherent authenticity. The fetters of inauthenticity need to be exposed and removed if the social potential for human fulfillment is to be realized; also, the arrogance of patriarchy toward male-female mutuality must be exposed and its violence stopped.

The consciousness of "quantum word"—the "mother tongue"—gives religion a new and universal voice. Wisdom is a progressive revelation. More than some predetermination of a fully specified intelligence, wisdom is a "teleological out-come" (an end-product/process) of complexification/consciousness, the explication of Cosmic Purpose, contingently/subjectively qualified in space/time. Contrary to the closed conventions of absolutist thinking, the "Revelation of God" is not some past happening associated with a statically fixed mind ordering every after-the-fact aspect of creation, but is a continuity-process inherently possessed in the transformational cosmos and contingently qualified; thus, even now, the free choices of the individual human causally effect modifications of essential continuities, for better, for worse, as well as the revelation of the divine. Divine Revelation is happening today through the agencies of modern humankind, indeed, of all subjectivities. It is idolatrous arrogance to conclude that God's Word is found only in the scripture of a singular culture; and what is more important for contemporary edification is the realization that collective wisdom is found in the whole conscious experience of God's Global People. The Church has branched its global umbrage from the continuity of Earthlife's deep-past to its present expanse. Each person is a leaf on the "Poetree", a page in life's work.

Each of us, as the victim of inauthenticity and victimizer of authenticity, needs to confess his/her own sin and witness to a personal change of heart (metanoia) away from ingrained inauthenticity so that those who follow after can look with faith and hope to our personal work and word, and find the Godly inspiration that they are seeking; by this inspiration they might live their own lives more authentically, and in so doing, sustain and advance wisdom's "inheritance of the ages", namely, the revealed Graces of Faith, Hope and Love greening Eden's Lifework Poetree.

entiated life do not prevent transubstantiation across the barriers of species, but, by symbioses life easily crosses "word" barriers and effects miraculous mixings of soul/substance. In golden fluency, Nature's goodword prose blends number-consciousness in her transformational alchemy.

"Metagenesis" is a biological term for the reproduction of life which is by way of the "alternation of generations"; it identifies Nature's use of the alternate strategies of asexual and sexual reproduction by the same organism which produces both the eggs and spores (the female and male gametes), which when joined produce the embryonic organism (seeds). Wheatcorn grain exemplifies: the "germ" (embryo) of the corngrass seed is of self-fertilized egg-origin, while the "seed-endosperm" (embryo food) is of extra-embryonic egg origin.

Thus, Eucharistic Bread, made from the endosperm-flour of the grass-seed, is food of wholly female providence, free of outside "male" contribution. A "virgin birth". Earthlife transubstantiation is accomplished by the grace potentials of virgin grain only. God-life, God-birth, is grain grace. Virgin grain is "The Bread of Life"—Eucharist substantiating Divine Presence; virgin grain is "The Oil of Life"—the fervor of intention kindled in every heart. In female grace alone, all life is thermodynamically divinized. Word is made flesh by virgin grace; virgin grace embodies the Divine Word, the Way, the Truth, the Light. Not Jerusalem. Not Mecca. Not Rome. The "religious center" that matters to every heart is "everywhere and nowhere", is that portion of the universe distributively centered in the subject-consciousness of personal soul. Do we not, in faith, self-recognize cosmic woman's soul-energy, universally distributed—God's Divine Love inspiring the whole of Creation?

It is a singular truth that all life depends totally for soul/substance edification on the grace-messaging of female providence. The consciousness of life's priesthood is woman's mind; males need to desist from alienating themselves from her sustaining insights. Woman must be intolerant of a male-objectified "priesthood" that is self-excommunicated from her sustaining authenticity. The culture of male-only priesthood is misbegotten. Witness the signs of the times!

Humankind is a people promised in Second Coming". Second Coming is a discovery of conscient continuity abiding in divine newness—the promise of personal divinity/creativity revealing infinity in the finite time-continuum. The Second Coming promise identifies the self of the subjective/objective continuum characterizing by and characterized in the conscient soul/body. Each birth is a resurrected Christ-Coming, a "call"; "answer" witnesses divinity in purposeful living.

5. Heavy Metal Harmony.

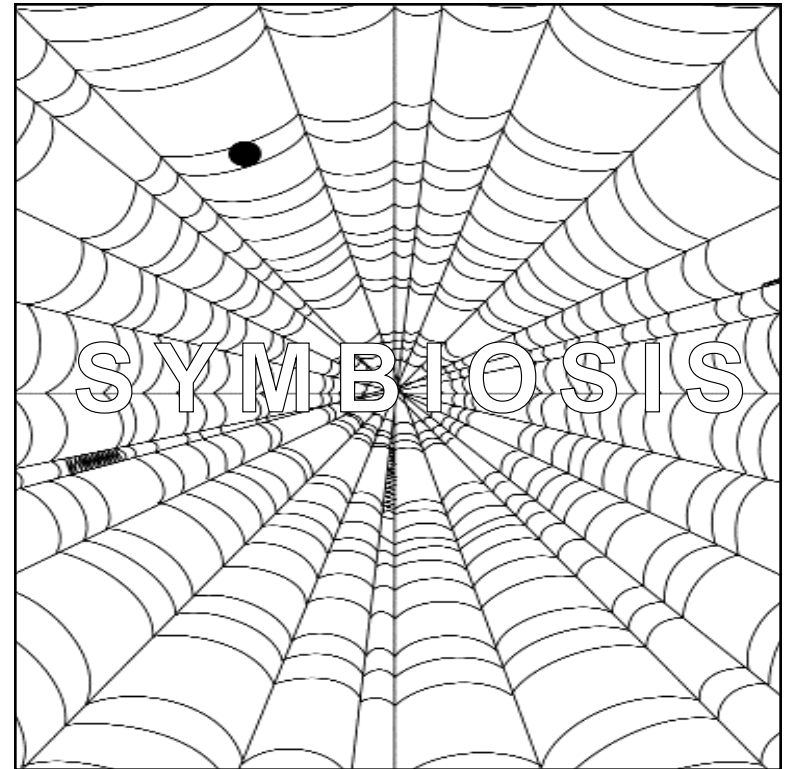

All life resonates to the magnetic beat of Deep Earth's heavy metal harmony. The ancient molecule cytochrome-c gives clues into life's deep past. It is the anchor structure of all plant and animal DNA. The "heme" molecule is the core structure of cytochrome-c, and the "iron atom" is at the core of the heme molecule. From the deep "ash" of the ardent Earth-core arise the "Dark Night Angels", the phoenix DNA.

DNA is a consciousness-building, forge-cast crystalline substance of diamond-durability that has been proven in storm-and-fire crucibles and hard-rock trials. All Earthlife resonates to the harmonic wavefields of stolid DNA which is miserly in the genetic breaches it allows. Earthlife's algorithms sequence on the logic of magnetic iron. Personal consciousness is Earth-voice talking, revealing, reassuring and resurrecting the heart-kept wisdom of the psyche in fleshed-out symmetries that are alert in time with future opportunities.

Network life is the natural force/field (inherency/coherency) wherein Earthsoul works out her algorithms. The "perfection of Nature" in its final outcome is not some before-the-fact anticipation by a "divine mind" located outside of and apart from Creation-in-Process. Nature-in-process doesn't just reflect "divinity-in-process", but is the exemplification of divinity-in-process, for Nature's transformational processing is not "moonshine", rather, it is "sunshine", that is, it is purposeful in doing what is manifested in its light. Because of Nature's "openness" to process, that is, its responsiveness to here-and-now contingencies, the notion of an ultimate "state of perfection" (absolutism) is a fiction of the human imagination, a lunacy. The politicizing of government and religion on the "static" figment of "divine right" is a deadly politics of moonshine, also a lunacy! Global violence testifies to the fact. Instituted absolutism is iron-dominated violence that prosecutes its wars on the commercial logic of dominion over Nature. Its consciousness is hard-wired against openness.

Nature's mechanisms for "self-perfecting" (responding to contingencies) are without hang-ups; those that work in the established patterns of redundancy are cherished and retained, and those that do not work disappear into the crucible-mix. Two transformational mechanisms essential in transmitting and securing the hard-won successes of life are the self-replicating procedures of cell-division (asexuality) and cell-to-cell interpenetration (sexuality). Accomplished in both reproductive devices is the mixing of substances (transubstantiation: across substance). The specifically established redundancies of differ-

1. The Quantum Impulse.

The deep-past condition of the swirling solar nebulae, the materials from which the Sun and its planets are formed, was perhaps a massless matrix of energetic plasma. The Sun's planets and all cosmic substance are of the same original stuff; but of all the Sun's planets, the greatest differentiation, so far as humans know, has occurred within Earth's convergent event-horizons that context the especially fruitful, polar "conversations". Within the least and greatest event-horizons are electron-cloudspheres still composing word-records of Cosmic Earth history, heart-kept wisdom-words of original faithground, the spacetime edification-sequences of soul/substance.

Cosmic change is originally ambivalent; all transformational forces are oppositionally driven by forces of syntropy (integration) and entropy (disintegration). The photon is an "energy-trigger" that mediates electron-choice toward either syntropy or entropy. When the electron is drawn/pushed into a syntropic liaison, diversifications result; but when it is left uncommitted, it returns to plasmic potential. The "kick" that the photon gives to the electron may provide the impulse needed for the electron-jump beyond its accustomed "sky" into the adjacent sky(ies) of atoms/molecules, and the moment of this electrical event may set in motion an unanticipated train of qualitative/quantitative diversifications.

Perhaps a leap back in quantum-consciousness is now needed, from crassness (macro obsession) to refinement (micro admission), for human obsession with "bigness" (quantity) is destroying sensitivity for smallness (quality). The qualifications of relationships, time-grounded in redundancy, are critical to relational sustainability. In and of itself, quantity is value-neutral until its magnitude burdens excessively the sustainability of essential continuities. By now we should realize that bigness deceives except "we think small" and attend to the small. All the complexity in our conscious world reduces down to this fundamental reality—the devil and the angel—the destructive and the constructive impetus, is in the finest details.

The complexity-network of small relationships enlightens human consciousness and characterizes human soul. In soul/substance we "belong" to the Sea of infinite Substance, for we are the continuum—essentially unified though diversified—of wave/particle bondings that characterize all transformational relationships. We are an organism of special wave/particle coherency, an Earth proliferation evolved in/from the ambiance of electromagnetism. From the cores of Earth and Sun, electromagnetism, like the waters in a whirlpool bath pum-melting the body with waves, is a compelling force, an energetic massage that regulates the valency-dispositions of vital processes; a stable body-temperature (electromagnetically regulated) is, for example, a necessary condition for vital processes.

In the sea of infinite substance, one thing that is in abundance is space, openness. Creativity needs space even for the least mite so as to be able to exercise its penchant for freedom. Perhaps the main reason for the electron's fruitfulness and versatility is the fact that it is given plenty sky in which to explore before finally settling into a purposeful liaison. We too need our own space as do others around us. The lesson of quantum relationship is openness; openness to oneself, to fellow humans, to nature and to God. Openness means a free and tolerant attitude which isn't excessively expectant, yet confident. We can take our cue from the wildly free electron and its comparts, the photons.

In the "Economy of Grace" we are intentionally to one another Sacrament (sacred mind) or Malament (evil mind). The super-arrogation of absolutism is malament, so is the self-obsessing over quantum possession. In "The Small", supremely, the Conscious Presence of Substance-Intelligence empowers all change, material/spiritual. In this Sea, inherent consciousness discovers its pacific place and glories there in open relationships.

plify in our lives the teachings of heart that Jesus exemplified in his.

In my young years it was the custom to educate children and youth to an awareness that "the road to hell is paved with good intentions". While the point of good intention is to move on to good actions, we too often find ourselves lacking in heart to take the action that heart inspires. We lack "courage". (The word courage is from the Latin word "cor" which means heart.) In taking courage from the exemplification of others we may find how we can move from intention to action. Faith that is "sunlight" empowers action; otherwise it is merely moonshine—a dim reflection. Hope for empowerment is only in faith that is sunlight-motivated. In taking from others courage for action, we, like Dorothy's friends, may also muster courage to face up to the pretenses of wizards who would control our lives. When the Christian people finds true heart, word becomes work, true exemplification that witnesses Jesus in "Second Coming". Individual light is institutional sunshine. Individual-suppressing institutions destroy life-giving light.

4. The Education of Heart.

The advice "to thine own self be true" is tested wisdom. True self is the point of the education of heart. Whether we will for our personal lifetimes be "angels" or "devils" is a determination of heart. The personal disposition of heart colors perspective on whether, in the train of daily exigencies, we attend more to good than to evil, for such attendance comes from the disposition of heart. Therefore, the paramount enterprise of a lifetime is the education of heart.

Sir Walter Scott has said that all other education (except the education of heart) is "moonshine".* Moonshine is reflected sunlight whose vitalizing power has been grounded in moondust. Reflected moonlight is perception without substance; that is what moonshine is. Too many of us go through life reflecting only moonshine, that is, light that isn't our own. The faith that an institution owns and which others reflect is moonshine. It is light filtered of its power to vitalize. Moonshine is cosmetic light, purely superficial, powerless to change. Sunshine, on the other hand, directly compels change by virtue of its broad-spectrum, vital energy; its impact is on the heart of the matter. "Heart" is the energy of light driving personal living, the exemplification in action of the good in our persons; whatever else we reflect, except action empowered in the good of our heart, is night-chilled moonshine.

The pretenses of reflected light can come from seemingly unlikely sources. Jesus warned against being taken in by the temple professionals:

"Beware the scribes who strut the marketplaces in their long vestments and bask in the recognition of the people, who occupy the best seats in the synagogue and have the honored chairs at banquets, who, by the pretenses couched in their draggy prayers, exploit the widows. They merit the greater condemnation." (Mk 12 38-40)

The prostitution of truth is the worst abuse of "light", especially, the intentional disadvantaging of others for self-gain, whether personally or institutionally, whether in the name of "secular" objective or "religious". The defrauding of others by deceived light is the scam of word-wizards who mean other than what they say.

Of greatest effect is the example of those who model love in action, and by so doing teach true heart. In the "wizard of Oz", the wimpy lion, the tinman and the strawman found true heart in the courage of Dorothy who stood up to the phony wizard. As Christians, we celebrate the resurrection of heart in the authentic living of faith, hope and love. It falls on us individually and personally to exem-

Trimorphic Resonance. The triatomic molecular structures of water and carbon dioxide cause them to be specifically harmonic in attenuating the energy of wave-frequencies in the infrared spectrum, thereby enabling the photosynthetic edification of seed carbohydrates and proteins.

Plastids have a role in the conversion of thermal energy to chemical, e.g., chloroplasts in leaf-cells bond carbon/water by the trapped use of photons (photosynthesis). The plastids embedded in the endosperm-starch of the corn seed may engage electromagnetic waves in the infrared spectrum to energize the concatenations (stepped linkages of hydrogens and hydroxyls in the chemical consolidation of carbohydrates/proteins) in seeds' after-ripening.

Plastids may be thought of as self-charging battery-plates, and mitochondria as energy-rods (poles) transforming battery potential into usable cell-energy. The function of these two cell-agencies, plastids and mitochondria, lets living systems be self-sustaining agencies. They are basic mechanisms essential to life.

The plastids and mitochondria are maternal in origin, that is, genetically transmitted in egg-cytoplasm by cell division. The DNA contribution of sperm is nuclear only, not cytoplasmic. This female/male relational fact is with "religious" significance.

2. Polar Ambivalence.

Einstein's take on a universal law in the cosmos in effect claims also the equivalency of religion/economics. The equation is universal in its application of thermodynamical balance, that is, of unqualified energy (E) with intensionally symmetered substance (light-defined mass);  $mc^2$  states universally the qualified "light-momentum" tensioning cosmic Earth's substances in processing the offset of electrical valencies. In the push-pull of overlapping electrical fields, the "middle estate" accommodates a continuum of thermodynamic balance between unprincipled chaos and principled chaos. Except for the charged fields of electrical potential there would be no creative dynamic to power the motors of natural diversification; there would be no life.

The tension between attraction/opposition specifies the inherent laws governing wavefield symmetry-transformations; the more subtle and diverse the complexities of tensions, the more creatively diverse are their implicate potentials (soul). The waste of natural diversifications registers in the waste of Earth/human "soul". The profligate and permanent trashing of the motors of diversification short-circuits spiritual potential. The conscious culture of polarization—in preference to interactive accommodations—hyper-charges the polarities, and agitates "lightning strikes". The dispersed grounding of potential by symbiotic interactivities subtly diffuses and defuses short-circuits of soul caused by discharge flashes.

Except societies, faithful to the imprint of experiential wisdom in Natural Laws, premise religion, justice and governance on the symbioses of diversifications, destructive engines will power out-of-control ruin. The premising of societal politics on the "adversary presumption of law" flies in the face of symbioses' Natural Laws; the soft discharge of charged potential harnesses middle-estate energies purposefully and avoids their waste in hot-discharge. "Litigation" is eschewed. Religion's fomenting of objectified, hostile opposites, e.g., God/satan, grace/sin, spirituality/materiality, offends against the Natural Law of dispersed polarity and openness to creative goodness. The Natural Law establishing the equivalency of religion/economics is universal, for religion and economics relationally pertain to thermodynamical expenditures. Natural Law is Divine Law; religion is fraudulent except it identifies with biological economics in their symbiotic accommodations. Natural Law is Ecologic Law; economics are fraudulent except they identify with right relationships (religion) in symbiotic accommodations. The cyber-conservancy of soul/substance is a property of natural thermodynamism. The human self is unsustainable except in the parceled energy of wavefield coherency. Corporate patriarchy, in its adversarial mindset of self-arrogation, violates Natural Law in a profoundly basic way, for it presupposes the superiority of male-monovalency over Natural Law's arrangement of female/male ambivalency. It stakes claims. Perhaps for the very first time in human history, a new cosmology/psychology, a new metaphysical consciousness of mind/body unity, informed in the wavefield subtlety of Natural Law and expressed in the valency accommodation inhering in a unified physics/meta-physics, can be put in place amongst Earth's peoples globally and lead them away from the fixed, exclusionary dogmata of the past to an open, inclusionary theology. If exclusionary orthodoxy, in the name of "truth", can burn people at stakes, it can do even worse—as history witnesses it has done and is still doing. Truth builds no fences. The appropriated distortions of truth for purposes of self-serving cannot escape eventual exposure.

Violence to truth, in the cause of absolutism, must be confessed and stopped. Giordano Bruno (condemned by the Roman Inquisition to burn at the stake for his acentric cosmology)* like Galileo deserves to be rejudged by the Church; the times are now open to have exposed the false religious dogmatism of Earth/human cosmological centering. Perhaps truth is sufficiently clarified now as to enable the birth of a truly "catholic" faith open to the contingently subjective placement of Earth and humans in the cosmos. This does not deny God; it speaks to the openness of divine agency. Perhaps the warning of Robert Bellarmine, S.J., to the pope has now come full circle, namely, that the transformational worldview (Copernican and now Einsteinian) cannot accommodate the static worldview of absolutism and its derived, centrist politics/theologies.

While stake-burnings were ignited by super-charged polarities, open truth may yet cool them. Truth, like the DNA-helix, is cosmically script in the thermodynamism of the Big Bang. Distributively located, truth is transformational; like gravitation it obtains in all and unfolds in consciousness. Centrism, religiously absolutized also in Peter's Church, is wrongheadedly fixed. The human venture, like the whole cosmic venture, is kept pliant by the same original fire. Sticks bruise, stones break bones and fires consume, but ideas are proven by the test of quantum truth, not by excommunicational stake-burnings. Confessional Church, too, must be faithful to truth's unfurling.

—My Birth, Your Birth,
A Billion Points Of Light,
Dot-Printed Matrix-Script
Against Dark Skies
And Currents Of Weather.

Windsqualls And Waves
Sometimes Lift, Sometime Fall,
But Always Impell
Against Our Skiffs To Tell
The Challenges To The Stream Of Life.
Not Always Have The Winds Conformed
To The Direction Of Water Currents;
Each Once Had A Mind Of Its Own.
Diversity Is Born Of Their Ambiguity;
Drifting Is Begot Of Their Conformity.

Too Often Now
They Are Of One Mind Conformed
By Religious Artefact.
The Backwaters Are Drained.
The Usual Haunts Of Spawning Sea-Life
Have Turned To Dust.
One Wonders,
"Are We So Eroded By Conformity's Dry Winds
As To Be Unable To Ply
Against Winds And Currents Of Institutional Idolatry?"

Though I Write Of Things So Ordinary
And Though I Live A Life So Plain,
I Am Free To Think My Own Thoughts.
Though We All Are
Skiffs Tossed On The Same Seas,

3. Hard Rock Trials.

"Hard Rock" is more than an ear-shocking beat; it is a valuable tool for universal communication. In the crystal-rock symmetry of solid-state substance, electron pathways are programmably useful in a host of communicational applications—perhaps none more useful than the personal computer.

In the living organism, however, programmable communications occur in webs of soft-wiring, not in hard-wired crystals. The rock-hard exigencies of daily life can trip us up, but, it is in confronting these that authentic consciousness is tested and religion is authenticated. Down-to-Earth religion is practiced in the real world, in the informed, conscious choices made moment-by-moment throughout the day. Consciousness is the experiential outcome of communication; its individual, "ontological" beginning happens the moment the egg is fertilized in the mother's body where the beginning of nurturing is a simultaneous occurrence. (A petri dish doesn't nurture because it lacks the wavefield subtleties natural to the mother's womb/body.) Faith-grounding begins in first maternal nurturings; they motivate the acceptable environment which accommodates mother-child symbioses. The more conscious a mother is, the more conscionable a mother can be, and the better-connected the faith-grounding of the conceptus, child and adult. To the extent that a woman is committed to mother will the pooled hope of fulfillment be stirred in the unborn. The importance of maternal disposition and of her determination for the wellbeing of her conceptus can hardly be exaggerated, for these translate into bodily reactions (neuro-chemical) that impact physically and psychologically in the forming child. A psychologically rejected—unwanted child—pregnancy can disrupt harmonic subtleties necessary for beneficial nurturing even if the fetus isn't aborted. The psychological/physical crippling of a child can begin in the womb. The "wanted" conceptus is much advantaged over the "unwanted" one. Full psychological harmony is attained when the acceptance of the father is heartfully expressed to the child-carrying mother. In the trimorphic resonance of mother-child-father, faith, hope and love work the Graces of Trinity.

The family trinity is the only "institution" competent to attend to the realizational needs of the child; in the family trinity is (should be) the unconditional commitment of the father and mother to each other in their joined cherishing of their new life, and in their life-focus to facilitate their child in discovering personal potentials and in perfecting them. As in the Godhead, family trinity harmonizes love's motive.

Is A Rib-Tickling Farce.

Sometimes "Rare", Sometimes "Well-Done",

By The Dialectic
Intervening The Personally Favored

When In Fact,
The Continuity Of Perpetual Resurrections
In Word And Flesh
Is By Woman's Order To Man.

Man Has Yet To Show His Thanks.
